

森や川の生態系を維持し固有種を守る取り組み

プロジェクトコード : CAT07

プロジェクト名 : International work camp of Gaià

期間 (プロジェクト開始日～終了日)

7/20/2022 ~ 8/3/2022

背景

The environmental association La Sínia was born in 1997 with the main purpose of offering services and activities related to promoting conservation and restoration knowledge about natural, cultural and historical heritage of the Baix Gaià territory.

In 2009 they started to manage the river zone of Gaià and its surroundings.

Their tasks as an association are:

1. Restoration and conservation of river zones.
2. Study and recuperation of its biodiversity.
3. Promoting environmental volunteering though many activities they organize monthly.

The association is formed by a multidisciplinary and experimented team in environmental education, leisure in the nature and conservation of the territory and biodiversity.

活動内容

This work camp will consist of maintaining, restoring and conserving the environment of the river "Gaia".

Specifically, the volunteers will carry out different tasks;

1. Improvement of forest habitats.
2. Improvement of El Catllar lock.
3. Elimination of invasive exotic species.
4. Monitoring of wildlife interest groups.

The different technical tasks that volunteers will carry on will be:

- Improvement of forest and river habitats, focusing mainly on the "El Catllar" lock and its natural environment: participants will support various tasks such as the eradication of allochthonous plants, vegetation of riverbanks and other areas, conditioning of areas of interest, irrigation in summer, etc.

場所・レジャー

El Catllar is a municipality in the county of Tarragonès in Catalonia, Spain.

The town of El Catllar has an old town centre crowned by the Castell del Catllar which sits on the remains of a fortified settlement from the Iron Age (7th-5th centuries BC) on a hill overlooking one of the meanders of the river Gaià. Although written documentation places its beginnings in the 11th century, when the river was the border between the Catalan counties and the kingdom of Al-Andalus, archaeological excavations indicate that the origins of the fortification date back to the Muslim period or even earlier.

Fourteen km towards the coast is one of the last forests stretching along the sea in Catalonia, part of which is a small nature reserve (under the Tamarit-Punta de la Móra Special Plan for Environmental and Landscape Protection).

Also on the coast, it is home to the remains of the Roman Villa of Els Munts, which is part of a larger UNESCO World Heritage Site.

During the afternoons, volunteers will participate in complementary and leisure time activities: workshops, fauna observation, excursions, debates and other activities that will be prepared between all the volunteers.

There will be the option to organize extra activities with extra cost depending on what the volunteers want to do. For example, an excursion to Port Aventura World Park.
